TOMATO LOSETTO F1 HYBRID

Lycopersicon esculentum 'Losetto' F1 Hybrid Common name: Tomato

An outstanding, cascading, bush variety that has shown exceptional tolerance to the devastating late blight fungus in trials over the past 2 years. Sweet, cherry-sized, round fruits are produced in abundance from baskets or containers on the patio.

- Flavour guide: Sweet and juicy
- Ideal for baskets/containers on the patio or in the greenhouse
- Sow March-April, or February for early crops in heat
- No support, pinching out, or sideshooting required
- Pick fruits regularly to extend the picking season
- Harvest July to October

SOWING INSTRUCTIONS Place seed on the surface of a free-draining compost and cover with about 6mm (1/4in) of compost or vermiculite. Place in a propagator at 18-21C (65-70F) until after germination, which takes 7-10 days.

GROWING INSTRUCTIONS Maintain temperature at about 15C (60F). Transplant seedlings when large enough to handle into 7.5cm (3in) pots. Plant in final position when plants are 10cm (4in) high.

For indoor crops plant into growbags, baskets or containers. For outdoor crops, acclimatise plants to outdoor conditions for a few days before planting in containers for the patio, or in sunny, fertile, moist, well-drained soil, after all risk of frost. Feed plants weekly with high potash tomato fertiliser once first fruits have set. It is not necessary to pinch out growth or to sideshoot. Harvest regularly to promote further flowers and extend the picking season.

Tomatoes are packed with antioxidants and high in vitamins A and C and lycopene, all helping to stimulate your body's immune system.

T&M RECOMMENDS
